Ferntree Gully Village Draft Streetscape Masterplan

Ferntree Gully locals will have another chance to provide input on their much-loved part of Knox, with a draft streetscape masterplan now out for public comment.

There's already been a lot of great ideas and suggestions for the Ferntree Gully Village Streetscape Masterplan, reports Dobson Ward Councillor Sue McMillan.

"The community's been clear on what people would like, centred on three key themes," Cr McMillan said.

"They include maintaining and enhancing the village atmosphere, reinforcing local identity, and improving pedestrian safety and accessibility."

Cr McMillan noted that residents, traders and shoppers wanted the village to be better connected and highly accessible, with a local and friendly feel to it.

"They want their village to provide more than just a shopping experience and Council wants to see that happen too," she said.

Cr McMillan encouraged all members of the Ferntree Gully community to have a look at the draft masterplan and provide comment to Council.

"This is your village and your ideas. We want to know what you think about this plan," Cr McMillan added.

Copies of the draft masterplan and a feedback form are available online, at www.knox.vic.gov.au until Thursday 12 August. The draft masterplan will also be exhibited in a number of local retail outlets.
